Mahone vs. Blaine.

We reproduce this morning from the New York Sun a report of a recent interview between one of that paper's Washington correspondents and Genethat the General should have been so candid in showing his hand to the Blaineites: but perhaps he knows the men with whom he is playing the game for the next Republican nomination for the presidency, and is not at all afraid to let them know beforehand that he holds the winning cards.

General MAHONE dismisses Mr. ALLIson in a slighting manner-in fact, with something very like a sneer. According to the little General, Mr. Allison is nothing more nor less than a Republican CLEVELAND. He means, no doubt, that the genuine Republicans-the old guard-the "offensive partisans"-will decline to support any man for President of the United States who is, so to speak, a "Mugwump."

Mr. BLAINE is not only not to be allowed to secure the vote of Virginia in the national nominating convention, but he is not to be allowed to have even one out of the twenty-four votes which this State will have in that body. The unit rule is to be enforced. And we all know what the unit rule would be in the hands of MAHONE. Recollect how he made a big club out of his supporters in the Virginia Democratic State Convention of 1878, and with it clubbed JOHN W. DANIEL-not to death, as the temporary discomfiture.

MAHONE expects to go into the National Convention as chairman of the Virginia delegation and to have his own sweet will carried out there so far as the vote of this State is concerned. The delegation will in effect consist of vision in the solid Democratic South is than $10,000 nor more than $100,000. Mahone. The others are to be mere | impending." cyphers placed on the wrong side of the principal figure, and so counting for nothing ; or rather, let us say, the more · there are of them the smaller will be the amount indicated by them.

We say this will be the case if Ma HONE can have his way. But will he have his own way? Where will be CAMERON, RIDDLEBERGER, WICKHAM, PARSONS, BRADY, and the other leaders of the Republican party? In what business are they expected to be engaged whilst General MAHONE is stocking the cards?

And how as to BLAINE himself? Why, he is the shrewdest party manager | probably cost twenty-four votes for in the United States. MAHONE would be a mere, child in his hands. All that he will have to do in order to so-wre the vote of Virginia in the Republic will be because he is confident of recure the vote of Virginia in the Republican National Convention will be to show his face to his devoted followers in this State, and tell them that MAHONE is no longer an officer of his. BLAINE'S that event I suppose Mr. Blaine, having strategy killed off New York's greatest dictated the nomination, would expect Man-Roscoe D. Conkling. Blaine's strategy nominated Garriero in 1880, and secured for BLAINE the Secretary- to become acquainted with the Senator ship of State. BLAINE has more followers two to one-nay, ten to one-than any other Republican in the United

The Virginia Western.

We have never had a doubt that the Virginia Western railroad was to be the cause of much prosperity to this city. The Clinch-Valley News says of it : "Hunt up your old map, if you do not possess a new one, and you will be surprised how the new Tennessee Midland, Virginia Western, and the Richmond and Alleghany railroad will shorten the distance from the Atlantic to the 'Father of Waters."

And not only shorten the distance be tween the Mississippi and the Atlantic, but develop the resources of a region so rich that it will enrich the large cities which shall have the good fortune to attract its products. The people of Richmond must not lose sight of the Virginia Western. It far as Virginia is concerned it is possiwill be a magnificent road. Baltimore | ble that some of the delegates will be turns longing eyes to it.

JUST So .- The last circular of Messrs. JOHN A. HAMBLETON & Co., of Baltimore, says:

more, says:

"The Richmond Dispatch not long since remarked, in quoting from one of our circulars, that it did not recollect that it approved of anything which we had previously written on the subject of the debt question, but that the article in question met with its approbation. We now return the compliment, and are pleased to observe that the Dispatch takes such a reasonmission to meet the representatives of the bondhelders. On this subject the Dispatch says
as follows:

(Here it quotes our article of Friday last, and then goes on as follows :]

last, and then goes on as follows:]

The Dispatch is right. It would be useless to sak the bondholders to confer with the appointees of the State if they are informed in alvance that no matter what their representatives may propose the State will not listen to them. Mr. Bouverie's communication makes a fair and authoritative offer to meet the representatives of the State, if he is assured that a compromise can be effected upon the basis of the ability of the State to pay. How could there be a fairer proposition and how is it possible that the State of Virginia can ask more reasonable terms of compromise from its crediters:

SENATOR BROWN ON PASSES. - A tele gram from Atlanta quotes United States Senator Brown as follows:

"The inter-State commerce bill does not in-terfore with any railroad issuing a pass to any point within the State in which the railroad is doing business. It does attempt to interfore with issuing passes from one State to another. As to what will be done about long-distances passes I have not yet determined, but clearly I can issue passes over the Western and Atlan-tic railway as far as the State line without an invasion of the inter-State bill. I doubt if I can issue a pass from Atlanta to Chattanooga without in some way getting around the pro-visions of the bill."

JOHN SHERMAN in his Nashville speech declared that the courage, pravery, and fortitude of the soldiers of both sides to the great civil war are now the pride and heritage of all. A pretty and patriotic sentiment. Nevertheless, it is a cold, comfortless fact for now the pride and heritage of all. A pretty and patriotic sentiment. Never-you, John, that there is not a man south of Mason & Dixon's line native and to the manner born who will put one particle of faith in the sincerity of THE PROPOSED CLARKSVILLE AND your political death-bed repentance.

Capital Punishment. When asked to favor the abolition of capital punishment, a witty Frenchman replied, "By all means, but let mes-sieurs the murderers begin." "Whose sheddeth man's blood by man shall his blood be shed." There is no other penalty than capital punishment which will restrain the hand of the murderer. He is nearly always of that peculiar mould which dreads death more than the loss of honor, reputation, friendship, or even family.

The juryman who now hesitates to inflict the highest punishment prescribed by law would, if capital punishment were abolished, hesitate to inflict the punishment of confinement in the penitentiary for life.

How many criminals having influential relatives and friends would serve out a life-term in the penitentiary even for the crime of murder? Soon does everybody except the family of a criminal lose sight of him and his crime.

In Virginia and the other southern States there is a peculiar reason for not abolishing capital punishment. The negro in his present condition is not as sensible as he ought to be to the disgrace of incarceration in the penitentiary. It is, in fact, in his case, a totalral Manone. We were rather surprised ly inadequate penalty for murder. It may be that we shall be told that this is a result of the institution of slavery. Perhaps it is. Perhaps, too, as soon as sufficient time has elapsed to enable him to rise higher in the social scale, the negro will ascend to a higher plane. We say nothing as to that. All that we insist upon in this connection is that to-day he is not in a condition to be a good citizen of a State whose laws forbid capital punishment. And even this much we regret to have to say.

> We return thanks to John L. Bu-CHANAN, Esq., Superintendent of Publie Instruction, for a copy of his annual report for the year ending July 31. 1886. There is a great deal of inteesting matter in it.

BRIEF COMMENT.

The Philadelphia North American says John Sherman is not a demagogue. Truly this is an age of wonderful discoveries.

"Mr. BLAINE is preparing to swing around the western circle again.' Well, why shouldn't BLAINE make a farewell tour?

He Prefers Houest John, General Hawley, or Cameron to Either Blaine or Allison. A Washington special of Sunday to the New York Sun says : Ex-Senator Mahone, of Virginia, says that the Republican delegation to the next National Convention from Virginia will John Sherman for President.

"I do not know whether Mr. Blaine will again be a candidate," ceiving the nomination and tolerably sure of an election. If he is not it looks very much as though the support of his friends will go to Senator Allison. to be Mr. Allison's Secretary of State. During the six years of my service in the Senate I have had an opportunity from Iowa. I have observed him in the caucuses of the party, as well as upon the floor well as upon the floor chamber, and I regard him as some-thing of an uncertain quantity in poli-If any human being from one day to another what Mr. Allison's policy or conduct upon any ques tion will be, that person far surp me in powers of discernment. Like mend the Irishman's flea, you put your hand upon him and he is not there. His position upon almost all public questions it would be difficult to predict in ad-vance. What he thinks to-day he may not think to-morrow. If he were elected upon a Republican platform in 1888, as Cleveland was elected upon the Democratic platform in 1884, it would be as difficult for Republicans to tell what Allison would do, after a talk with him in the White House, as it now is for our Democratic brethren Virginia to predict what Cleveland will do after a pow-wow with him. So for Mr. Blaine or for Mr. Allison, but I feel confident that the majority of the delegation will favor the nomination of Sherman, and that the unit rule will prevail in the casting of the vote in the Convention. One thing that will hurt Mr. Blaine in our State is an expression that he made use of in 1884, prior to the meeting of the Republican National Convention in Chicago. It was known that the vote of the State would be given to Arthur, but, about a month before the Convention met, John S. Wise, Senator Riddleberger, and ex-Congressman Hooper had an interview with Mr. Blaine, which at the time attracted considerable attention. They inquired of him, in case a divided delegation was sent to the Convention from Virginia, which faction would be recognized? Mr. Blaine replied that he supposed that if there were two contesting delegations both would be admitted. 'But after all,' he added, about the only influence Virginia will have in the next election will be the votes of her twenty-four delegates n convention.' John Sherman came to Virginia two years ago and upheld the platform of the Republican party in speeches delivered by him in Rich-mond and Petersburg. The Republi-cans of the State know him. He was not afraid to declare his principles and to advocate the success of his party. He did this in no uncertain manner. Abused and villified by the Democratic press of the State, he fearlessly advo-cated the Republican cause. As against Blaine or Allison, I believe the Repub-lican party in Virginia would prefer the nomination of either Sherman, Joe

Hawley of Connecticut, or Don Cameron of Pennsylvania." Prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar write
